Freeman Davenport

At the Art Circle Public Library

July and August

Freeman Davenport studied Art in Rome, Italy; receiving her BFA degree from Cornell University. She has Lived and worked in New York, Georgia and Florida.

For fifteen years she has operated Brush Strokes Gallery, adjacent to her studio in Florida. Freeman's work there concentrated on historical architectural themes and evolved into Plein Air paintings capturing the colors of the moment.

Her plans are to continue the exploration with the different light, colors and seasons in Tennessee. Her studio in Jamestown has opened the opportunities to further her work with horse paintings and house portraits.

Freeman's commission work is done for private clients as well as corporations and governmental agencies.
